ALL CIVIC BODIES ASKED TO ATTEND

Record-Breaking Crowd Expected Tonight by Park View Citizens.

Park View citizens, who are celebrating the completion of the school building at Newton and Warder streets and the paving of Georgia avenue, tonight will be hosts to members of all the civic organizations of the District at the fourth of the series of entertainments being conducted in the auditorium of the new school structure.

As every citizen's association is expected to send a delegation of visitors, a record-breaking attendance is anticipated.

The concluding meeting of the festivities to be held tomorrow promises to be the most interesting of the series. In the afternoon there will be a Park View community parade, starting from the school promptly at 5 o'clock.

Oscar W. B. Reed, chairman of the committee in charge of this feature, said today that there probably would be 1,500 people in the parade, including 700 school children. For tomorrow night, which is planned as a "home rally," many interesting features are scheduled, including the announcement of winners of the Park View lawn and garden contest.

Community Spirit Extolled.
 Another large crowd turned out for last night's entertainment at the school building, which was of the character of a reception to board of education members and teachers. All of the addresses dealt with the subject of developing community spirit to the highest point, and of making the schoolhouse a school home for both adult and juvenile members of the community.

Ernest M. Thurston, superintendent of schools, presided. On the stage, in addition to President John F. McGraw of the association, were Rev. John Van Schaick, Jr., president of the school board; Ernest H. Daniels, vice president of the board; and Mrs. Sussie Root Rhodes, also a member of that body, and superintendent of playgrounds of the District.

Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools; Robert L. Haycock, supervising principal of the third division; Miss F. S. Fairley, principal of the Park View School, and all the teachers of the school.

Degrees for Normal Graduates.
 Mr. Daniels expressed his willingness to go as far as any one in making the schoolhouse available for the development of the community center idea along practical lines. He referred to the high cost of living and the fact that the only way to reduce food prices is to increase production, and urged that the schools endeavor to stimulate interest in the opportunities offered for future professions in the agriculture field. He also advocated the conferring of degrees by the Washington Normal School, which would make its graduates eligible to accept appointments as teachers in the local high schools. Under present law appointments may be given only to those who hold college degrees.

Assistant Supt. Kramer declared that the education of the future is a new trend in educational lines. Dr. Van Schaick, supervising principal Haycock and other speakers told of the need of greater co-operation between parents and teachers and of the development of the highest community interest in the work of the schoolhouse along the broadest lines for the welfare of the entire community.

Interpreting the addresses were musical numbers rendered by the recently organized Park View orchestra, which was its initial public appearance. Mrs. Rhodes, the organizer, also made her debut as an orchestra leader. The audience showed appreciation of the efforts of the new community organization by demanding frequent encores.

Other numbers on the musical program included a piano solo by Miss Edith Drexelius, violin solo by Miss Emily Rootin and vocal solo by Miss Eleanor Griffith. Miss Grace G. Meyer contributed a reading, which, followed by singing by the audience, concluded the program.

President McGraw announced last night winners of prizes for the best decorated cars which participated in the automobile parade with which the celebration was inaugurated Monday night. For the touring car division first prize went to Clifford C. Wineberger and second prize to Miss Amelia Guide. George E. Miller won the roadster prize and Jones-Millinery first honor in the mercantile car division.

David Gottwald was decided to have had the best looking Ford, while Mrs. Clayton Graft was given the prize for the most attractively trimmed car, driven by a woman. Honorable mention was given Mrs. H. Kern in the touring car division. The judges who made the awards were Howard S. Fisk, Lewis M. Thayer and Kingdold Hart.

PLANS TO SAVE PAPER.
 Public Health Service to Curtail Mailing List.

Following recommendations of economy made by the federal trade commission to relieve the scarcity of paper the government is starting to practice what it preaches.

The public health service announces that it will curtail its mailing list for the Health News, published by the service. Surgeon General Rupert Blue has notified all persons receiving the publication that, unless he receives word from them they desire to have it continued, they will be stricken from the mailing list.

This is in line with the government's recommendation to newspapers throughout the country this week that they reduce the size of their Sunday editions so as to conserve the paper supply.

PRIMARY LAW SOUGHT BY JACKSON DEMOCRATS

Would Refuse to Elect Convention Delegates Unless Congress Enacts One.

A resolution pledging the Jackson Democratic Association to work for an adequate primary law for the District of Columbia for the selection of delegates to national political conventions was adopted by the association at a meeting last night in the Raleigh Hotel.

The co-operation of the republican state committee of the District will be sought to obtain this end.

A suggestion was made that if Congress failed to enact such a law before the next national conventions are held both democrats and republicans of the District refuse to send delegates to the conventions to avoid the reflection cast upon elections of delegates here under present conditions.

Want Presidential Vote.
 The Jackson Democratic Association also adopted a resolution urging Congress to take steps looking to a constitutional amendment permitting residents of the District to vote for electors for President and Vice President, and to be represented in Congress by senators and representatives chosen by themselves.

A telegram from Vance McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee, received by the association last night, spoke hopefully of a committee of the democrats. It said: "There is not a surely republican state west of the Mississippi, while in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut the volume of the Wilson tide is overwhelming. States like Ohio, Indiana, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Michigan, that have been classed as safely and certainly republicans or safe today may be counted safely for Wilson."

To Increase Membership.
 The meeting last night was the first held by the association this fall. It has about 275 members, and plans were made to increase the membership rapidly. The association is the oldest political organization of the kind in the country, with the exception of Tammany Hall. It was formed in 1827.

The advisability of having the association hold meetings regularly throughout the year, instead of only during political campaigns, was discussed. The appointment of a committee of five to investigate and report on the feasibility of establishing in Washington permanent headquarters for all the democratic clubs and associations in the country was proposed.

The following officers were elected: President, William Cranch McIntyre; president, J. H. Hodge; secretary, William McK. Clayton; James L. Norris, Charles W. Ray, Dr. Samuel E. Lewis, Dr. A. Edwards, John G. Campbell, Dr. J. A. Watson, George Field, C. N. Chipman, J. Fleet Lockett and Walter C. Balderson; secretary, Clinton K. Colvin; treasurer, Charles F. Sudworth.
